

LEAD your people

Empower employees with the skills-based knowledge they need to move your organization forward faster.

The most important assets in your business are the people who drive innovation and success. Give them the BPM knowledge they need to make your business even more successful.

Custom group training

BPMInstitute delivers customized on-premise training and curriculum that supports your particular business objectives. Multiday custom courses support specific initiatives within your organization with a hands-on training approach that promotes adoption and integration of new architectures, methodologies, and best practices.

We've been recognized by independent research firms as a category leader in BPM training and certification. This makes BPMInstitute the natural choice for practitioners of all skill levels to get the education they need to achieve project goals and business priorities.

BPMInstitute delivers multiple methods of training, meaning individuals or groups can choose the one that's right for them. Customize the mix of in-person training with live, interactive online training. Or access recorded on-demand training and other exclusive content on any mobile device—anytime, anywhere.
